G.O.P.

Though Democratic landslides shook the nation and state, Tuesday, Carmel, its encircling unincorporated residence areas, the Valley and down coast to and including the Sur, voted staunchly, as always, Republican.

They also voted two to one, and better, for Right to Work.

And they voted for the Municipal Water District, one of the few issues of the election in which they were in agreement with Monterey and Seaside, which voted Democratic and No on Right to Work. The water district passed handily. Davies was elected board member from the Carmel division. Other board members elected: Patton, Barbour, Coffin, Warner.

Winner in the county tax collector contest was Birch.

Of course, the Republican side of the Hill helped return Republican Charles Teague to Congress and Republican Alan Pattee to State Assembly. Monterey and the rest of the county, and the district, though they voted the Democratic slate, made exceptions in the case of these Republican incumbents. Seaside did not.

The Carmel vote (13 precincts) total: 2363.

For Governor: Knowl and 1500, Brown 834; for Senator: Knight 1227, Engle 1031; Congress: Teague 1705, Stewart 857; Assembly: Pattee 1771, Wingarten 521. Proposition 18: 1340 Yes, 745 No.

Pacific Grove voted for Knowland, rejected Knight, voted for Teague and Pattee. Prop. 18: 2191 Yes, 1923 No.

Week End

Tonight, 7:00 o'clock, at the high school, school board special meeting on federal allocation; study session with Pfeiffer and Palo Colorado district boards on annexation of the down-coast schools to the Carmel district; discussion of appointing citizens' advisory committee on report cards, etc.

Saturday, 11:00 to 5:00, Pebble Beach, Concours d'Elegance.

Saturday and Sunday, Laguna Seca, starting at noon, Sport Car Races.

Monday, 4:00 o'clock, city hall, public hearing before city council on C. G. Stoops appeal from planning commission decision on motel addition.

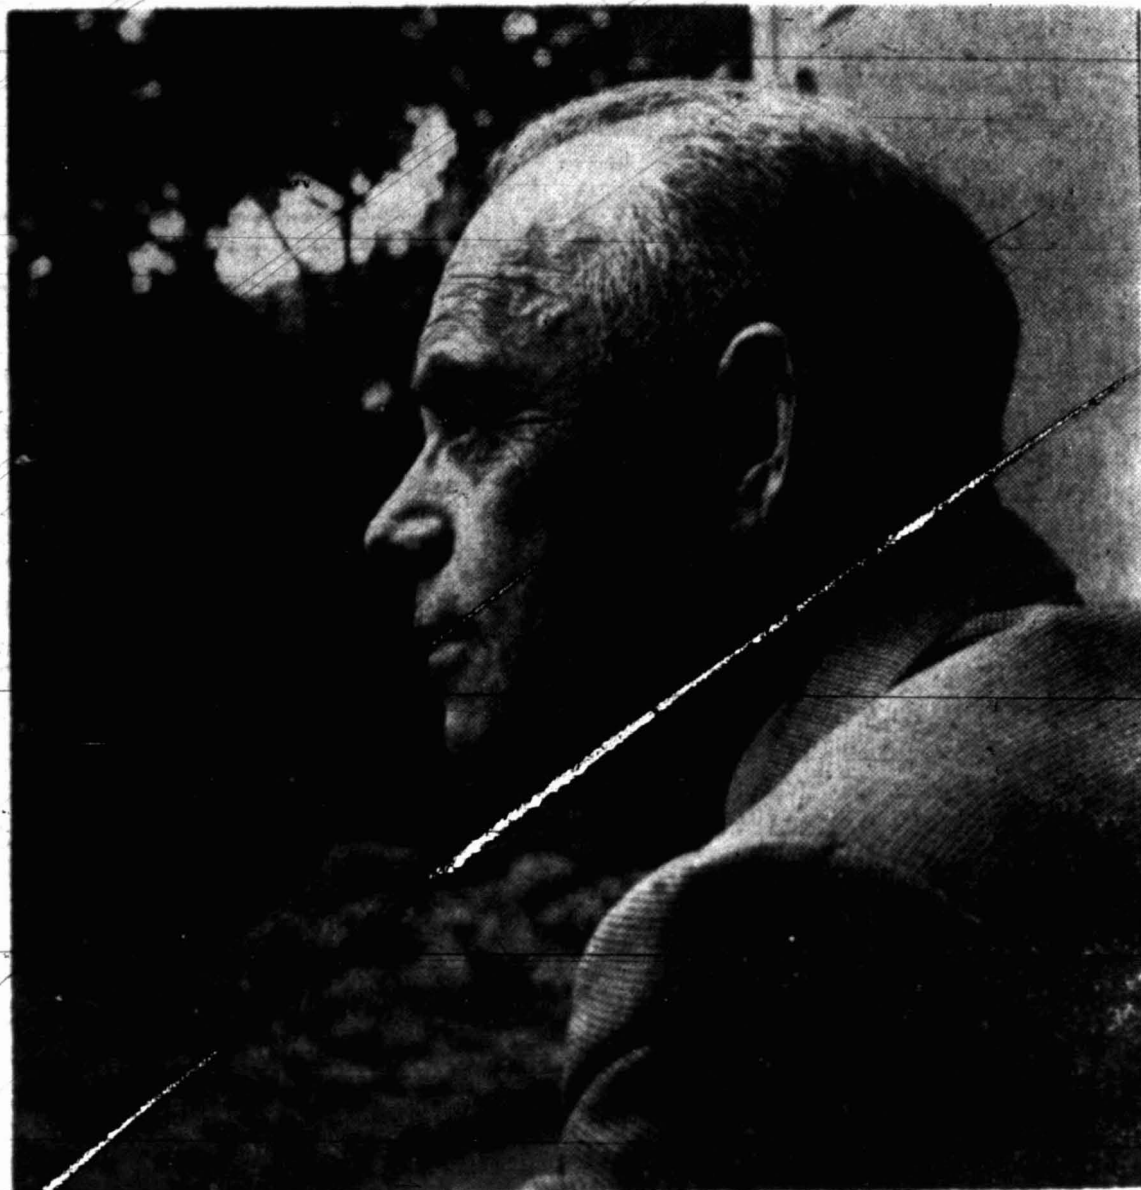

Wednesday afternoon, 4:00 o'clock, city hall, Carmel Planning Commission study session (advanced one week because of Thanksgiving schedule.)

Wednesday night, 8:00 o'clock, Sunset Cafeteria, High School P.T.A., speaker on How to Choose a College.

NO OFFICIAL VETS' DAY CEREMONY PLANNED

There will be no official observance of Veterans' Day in Carmel on Tuesday. Instead color guard ceremonies will be held at half-time at the Pacific Grove-Carmel High School football game on November 15.

Originally this game was played on Veterans' Day, a school holiday, and Veterans' Day ceremonies were scheduled at the event. This year there is no school holiday but the Veterans' Day observance will, as is traditional, be held at the half on Bardarson Field when the game is played on November 15.

Gene Viljoen Planning Book On His Father, Boer War General

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

Gene Viljoen likes uncluttered horizons.

Like those of the South African veldt, the New Mexican desert, the snow fields around Lake Tahoe in winter, or the open sea as seen from aboard ship.

Preferences of this sort and the story of how he has managed to turn some sixty years of living into a riproaring adventure certainly rate him as one of Carmel's showcase individuals: a man new neither to the community nor the Pine Cone, but a man worth hearing from now and then so we can keep up with what he's doing, and thinking.

A current project is his work on some genealogical data with a view to perhaps turning out some material on his famous family, including his father, General Ben Viljoen, swashbuckling hero of the Boer War and the terror of the British during the historic campaign in the Transvaal.

For Wynand Eugene Viljoen, the Anglo-Boer action was the first of four major wars in which he was to be directly involved. At the age of six he was in the Jamison raid, perpetrated by the British on a group of Boer families gathered for a feast day. With his mother he took refuge in a village church until the enemy was routed.

At nine he, with his mother, aunt, brother and a Zulu family retainer, fled the British by wagons and mule team through the bush-veldt toward Portuguese East Africa with The Hague as their eventual destination. They made it. But only barely.

With such a start in life, Eugene was hardly destined for an existence of quiescence in Europe. After the war, he plunged back into the rugged life of South Africa—the proud Gen. Viljoen never returned, refusing to take an oath to serve the British Crown—and at sixteen made a trek with his uncle from the Transvaal to the Zambesi River setting up steel telegraph poles.

Fancy Cars Of Today, Vintage Treasures, At Concours Saturday

A special Rolls Royce class has been included in the Ninth Annual Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, which will be held Saturday, from 11:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock on the lawn between Del Monte Lodge and the Eighteenth hole of the Pebble Beach Golf Links. Over 100 cars, vintage and modern, will be shown.

In the new classification, Alton Walker of Pebble Beach, collector of antique and classic automobiles, will exhibit his 1926 Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost. Kenneth B. Anderson of Orinda has entered a 1922 Silver Ghost, and there will be a 1958 Bentley and 1958 Rolls-Royce among the 15 others in this group.

Other interesting cars entered include an $18,000 Alfa Romeo coupe, which has been shown in Italy, Switzerland, Paris and London, as well as in this country; a 1957 Maserati Coupe, and a 1958 Mercedes Benz convertible coupe which will arrive from Germany just in time for the show.

An unusual entry in the Pre-War American Cars is a 1930 DuPont owned by Jack B. Nethercutt of Los Angeles. This is the only existing DuPont town car. It has a built-in cosmetic cabinet and bar and carries a silk umbrella, walking stick, monogrammed car robes, and all interior hardware is silver plated. The restoration of this car took 22 months, over 10, (Continued on Page Fourteen)

Mayor Proposes City's Building P.O. On Junipero

At last night's council meeting Mayor John Chitwood proposed that the city council and planning commission consider the city's building a post office, city hall and police offices on the city lots at Junipero and Fifth, adjacent to the Youth Center.

The post office department will not renew its lease at its present location when it expires in 1960; the building is not large enough

Whitaker To Start Initiative Limiting Council Appointees

Francis Whitaker gave notice to the Carmel City Council last night that they would have to deal with an initiative petition, after the holidays, for an ordinance which would limit council appointees to city boards and commissions to Carmel electors.

If his initiative petition has verified signatures of 10 percent of the registered voters in the City of Carmel, the council must either pass the ordinance or submit it to the voters in an election.

It was by initiative petition that the Right to Work issue got on the ballot, and was voted by the people, and became a Carmel City ordinance.

Whitaker announced his intention after the council held second reading last night and adopted ordinances establishing an arts commission and a forest commission. Both ordinances provide that the commission members shall be appointed by the mayor, with the approval of the council, and the majority shall be Carmel residents.

Whitaker has insisted that all commission members be Carmel residents and when the ordinances were first proposed, several months ago, produced an informal petition signed by 45 Carmel citizens to back his demands. The council scaled down the number of commission members but still held out for a provision that would empower them to appoint a minority of non-residents, if they wished.

They offered no comment to Whitaker's announcement.

Insurgents Fail To Persuade Council To Kill Petition

Insurgents against the Carmel Point Annexation movement crowded the Carmel City Council Chambers last night and for about half an hour fought to kill annexation procedure before it could get started.

They did not win their point.

The council was scheduled to grant permission to the Carmel Point Property Owners Association to circulate an annexation petition among Point residents. Property Owners Association Directors, who ran into heavy opposition among Point residents last week, asked the council to postpone its decision for 60 days to give them time to instruct and persuade the insurgents. This the council was prepared to do, and eventually did do, but first: Mr. and Mrs. Donnan Jeffers, Dr. (Continued on Page Fourteen) and lacks parking and loading area, a representative of the post office department, land division, on a visit here from San Francisco last week end, told Mr. Chitwood.

The government will not pay for land or building, the mayor explained, but will pay six percent of the value of land and building in rent on long term lease to private individuals who will build suitable quarters or offer existing building for lease. The present post office was built under such an arrangement. This policy has resulted in a number of changes of post office location, and consequent shifts of land values, development and character of the business district. Since there is no door to door mail deliveries, everybody makes a trip to the post office daily, and the value of this streaming of population to one central point to neighboring stores and shops is obvious.

Aware that another shift was imminent, the mayor, two months ago asked the post office department to inform the city of contemplated new locations and directed the planning commission to make a study of available locations with a view to the effect on the town's commercial development and traffic flow. There has been no report from the planners yet.

Monday's Liquor License Control Meeting Postponed

The meeting set for Monday afternoon to explore possible legislative control of the number of liquor licenses in any city has been postponed to an indefinite date. State Senator Fred Farr is unable to be present.

Carmel City Council was to meet Monday with Farr, Assemblyman Alan Pattee, Russell Munro, director, Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, and Richard Carpenter, executive secretary of the League of California Cities, to seek a means of limiting the number of bars in California cities.

Carmel city officials, at last week's League of California Cities convention in Los Angeles, recommended liquor licenses issued within a city be commensurate with the population.

The League endorsed the Carmel recommendation and prepared a resolution. The resolution was sent to Governor Knight and officials who were to have met here Monday.

At present, liquor licenses are issued by the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. The proposed state legislation would bring about recognition of cities' rights and problems in regard to the number of bars within their limits.

PADRE GRIDDERS AT GILROY FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High's 17-game win streak and the Coast Counties Athletic League B-Division football title will be at stake at Gilroy this Friday night when the Padres and Mustangs tangle in the prep crucial of the 1958 season. Neither the Padres nor Mustangs have been seriously threatened in league play this season and Friday night's natural will be between two evenly-matched squads with strong defenses and breakaway threats on the offense. Gilroy has a letterman at every position this year and the Mustang backfield is rated one of the best in Northern California. Sparked by Elbert Enos, a crunching fullback and brilliant passer, the Gilroy backfield quartet is equipped with good speed and has exceptional power up the middle. Operating with spread ends and flanker backs, the Mustangs present a dangerous passing game to go with the strong running attack. Comparative scores show the Padres and Mustangs are dead even against league opposition. Carmel clipped San Lorenzo, 32 to 6, and Gilroy did the job, 39 to 6; the Padres got over King City 12 to 0, while the Mustangs finished on top, 13 to 7; Gilroy downed Gonzales, 19 to 12, and Carmel topped the Spartans, 20 to 6.

Carmel's starting offensive unit in Friday night's crucial will be manned by Dennis Peavey and Ron Faia, halfbacks; Bud Conroy, fullback; Cim Conway, quarterback; Phil White and Bill Hicks, ends; Chris Wilkin and Sam Farr, tackles; Mike Marquard, Deen Rowe, and Al Eaker, guards; and David Vincent, center. The rugged defensive crew which has given up 18 points in five games consists of Norman Colman and John Wilkin, tackles; Phil White and Bill Hicks, ends; Al Eaker and Tom Stanford, guards; Steve Gann and Larry Dufur, linebackers; Russ Wise and Dennis Peavey, halfbacks, and Captain Craig Smith, safety. Other defensive-unit stoppers will be Van Treat, Harrison Hilbert, Andy Elliott, Fritz Scheffer, Tom Green, Bob Moore, and John Moffett.

In a 6:00 o'clock preliminary game, the Little Padres will tackle the once-beaten Gilroy Ponies in a game which will also go a long way toward deciding the top team in the junior-varsity division. Coach Rainer's little sprouts put a terrific battle to tie the huge Hollister jayvees last Saturday and will feel right at home against the big Gilroy squad.

The rest of Friday night's league action finds Pacific Grove at Gonzales, King City at San Lorenzo, and Live Oak at Hollister.

PADRES TUMBLE HAYBALERS, 22 TO 6; JAYVEES TIE, 6 TO 6

Cashing in on all breaks presented to them, Carmel High's varsity football squad did a routine job on the big Hollister Haybaler crew to notch a crucial league victory and retain a share of first place in the B-Division title chase. Played before the largest crowd of the season at Bardarson Field, Saturday's game was rated a toss-up by the experts and the first quarter indicated the consensus was just about right. Carmel hit the board first as fullback Bud Conroy took a pitchout from quarterback Russ Wise and threw a strike to halfback Dennis Peavey for a 35-yard touchdown aerial. Carmel's accurate place-kicker, Jeff Smith, toed the ball between the uprights for a successful conversion and the Padres were enjoying a very brief 7-0 lead. On the ensuing kickoff, Pete Cottrell, Hollister's swift halfback, gathered in Jamie Holman's kick on the 15 yard line and blazed into Carmel's end zone without being touched. A good rush by Carmel's defensive line thwarted an attempted run for the conversion and the Padres had a slim 7-6 lead. Carmel's kicking specialist, Jamie Holman, set up the Padre's next score by punting out of bounds on Hollister's two-yard line. While attempting to move out of trouble deep in their own territory, the Haybalers were nailed for a safety as Bill Hicks, John Wilkin, and Phil White put terrific pressure on quarterback Gil Solano to down him in the end zone. The Padres picked up another score in the second quarter as Ron Faia ripped the Haybaler line with traps and off-tackle slants to put the ball on the visitor's four-yard line where Bud Conroy picked up the touchdown on a wide sweep off the left flank. Crisp blocks by Dennis Peavey, Ron Faia, and Al Eaker opened the running lane for the swift Conroy. Jeff Smith's kick was true to the mark and Carmel had a halftime lead of 16-6. A third period slump found Hollister outplaying the Padres and threatening to score on several occasions. However, the Carmel defensive unit put on a strong stand to thwart the Haybaler scoring threats. Solid line play by Phil White, Norman Colman, Tom Stanford, Al Eaker, John Wilkin, and Bill Hicks held the Haybaler running gains to a minimum while the secondary work of linebackers Steve Gann, Larry Dufur, Craig Smith, Dennis Peavey, and Russ Wise controlled the Hollister overhead game.

Carmel's fourth-quarter touchdown was the result of heads-up play by Jamie Holman and some hard tackling by end Phil White. Holman punted to the Haybaler 15-yard line where Pete Cottrell gathered in the ball and started for Carmel's goal. However, at the 20 yard line Phil White jolted Cottrell with a booming tackle and the ball squirted free into the arms of punter Holman who gratefully accepted the gift and sprinted in the Hollister end zone for the clinching touchdown. Smith's kick was wide on this one and the scoreboard final showed Carmel in front, 22 to 6. While Carmel's defensive play overshadowed a stuttering offense, the hard running of halfback Ron Faia and the poised performance of quarterback Russ Wise stood out in the Padre's offense.

Carmel's junior-varsity got stung with a Hayseed touchdown in the first quarter but came back strong to deadlock the issue in the final heat to earn a 6-6 standoff (Continued on Page Thirteen)

he traveled around the union showing films in outlying settlements. He worked in the Kimberley diamond mines and still later made a (fortunately) thwarted attempt to run away to sea. That turned out all right when he made arrangements for a legitimate voyage to America to join his father, who by then at the invitation of President Theodore Roosevelt had come here and was living on a ranch straddling the Rio Grande near Las Cruces, New Mexico.

However, the youth's growing interest in telegraphy and radio came to grips with father's attempts to interest his son in a classical education. Of course, Gene ran away, this time to the Black Hills of South Dakota where he, then 19, became a horse wrangler and cow puncher, and this before these occupations had achieved glamor.

He earned enough money to finance study at the Dodge Institute of Telegraphy in Indiana, then went to sea as a radio operator. In 1915 he joined the Signal Corps of General Pershing's Flying Column, serving with Pershing in the Mexican campaign.

When World War I came along, he was a sergeant, stationed briefly in Monterey. He attended officers' school in New Jersey and later organized the radio school at Fort Leavenworth and a similar school at Fort Meade.

After the war, he was still teaching radio in the Signal Corps in connection with veteran rehabilitation. At Letterman Hospital, San Francisco, one of his students was the brother of a girl from Orland, Calif., who (in good time) became Mrs. Viljoen.

The couple first came to Monterey in 1928, when Mr. Viljoen was the first supervisor of the Monterey Airport. He held a similar position at Truckee, and later moved his growing family back into the more adventurous life he was beginning to miss.

They went to the south end of Lake Tahoe, liking it well enough to spend more than a decade in the area. In the summer Mr. Viljoen ran an excursion boat on the lake and in winter maintained all the telephone lines within a 15-mile radius of his headquarters. With his dog team, of Husky and Malamute antecedents, he skied his way over snow piled four to eleven feet high and drifted, in places, even higher.

On more than one occasion he finally located the standard-height phone wires after skiing over them. The family thought nothing of being snowbound six months at a stretch, and once a courier made a long and hazardous ski journey from Tahoe City with serum for one of the Viljoen children ill with whooping cough. During this time, Mrs. Viljoen was telephone operator for their end of the lake and it kept them in close association, if not contact, with their equally snowbound neighbors.

Then still another war came along. Mr. Viljoen became an executive connected with electronics at Bendix Aviation in North Hollywood, a radio instructor at Fort Ord, an instructor at the U.S. Maritime Officers' School at Alameda and then, inevitably, he went to sea again, this time as an officer in the Maritime Service.

On the tanker SS Mission Carmel, on which he had requested duty, he arrived at Guadalcanal just as U.S. forces were running out of oil. Shipping on the SS Kingsport Victory, he had put in at Iwo Jima in the thick of battle, just a week before it was taken by the Marines. So he still had his old habit, he believes, of being in crucial places at crucial times.

The Viljoens have lived permanently in Carmel since 1942, first on Carmel Point, and more recently near Carmel High School, where daughter Barbara, 16, is a junior this year. Another daughter, Jeanine (Mrs. Thomas Bottaro) lives in Mt. Angel, Ore., and a son, Benjamin, is with the local division of Firestone Engineering. There are six Viljoen grandchildren.

Current duties for Gene Viljoen center around supervision of maintenance in the Carmel Unified School District, a continuing job involving building and repairs in all nine schools. But don't think his preoccupation with directing maintenance crews keeps him out of touch with the world. In his home he maintains extensive telephone-telegraph equipment, was one of the first ham operators, beginning with the crudest kind of equipment back in 1911. (He says there's another ham in Carmel who also began in 1911, Andy Martin.)

He further says the hobby has given him countless rewarding experiences, such as the time around 1913 when he was on a three-masted schooner in the South Seas and met a Tahitian boy who became fascinated with the telegraph key aboard ship and hoped to learn about radio and telegraphy some day. One night in Carmel several years ago Gene Viljoen was contacted by a ham sending from the Island of Rappa. Same boy. They remembered each other well.

If Eugene Viljoen, adventurer, does produce some information on Gen. Benjamin Viljoen, military hero, it should make fascinating reading. Gen Viljoen, once described by youthful war correspondent Winston Churchill as "that notorious ruffian, the fearless Viljoen," was a member of the Transvaal legislature before the Boer campaign came up and he left to head the Johannesburg Commandoes.

Although he was active in many battles and after the fall of Pretoria was second in command of the entire Boer army, he is perhaps most lauded in history and even poetry for a spectacular feat at Vaalkrans where, with 80 of his men and a single pom-pom gun (a

Sport Car Races At Laguna Seca Saturday - Sunday

One of the finest fields of the year is shaping up for the semi-annual Laguna Seca sports road races here Saturday and Sunday.

The two-day meet starts at 12 noon Saturday and the schedule will be topped by 25-lap main events for the big cars over 2000cc. entries on Sunday.

Saturday morning there will be a drivers meeting at 9:30 o'clock with practice runs beginning at 10:00. Nine races, all 8 laps each, are scheduled for Saturday, beginning at approximately lunch-time, (12-1).

Sunday morning, sessions begin at 10:30 and the first of eight races are 10, 15 and 25 lap races, as well as a ladies race of 8 laps.

The 1.9 mile Laguna Seca layout, located on the Fort Ord military reservation, is considered one of the nation's best courses from a standpoint of drivers and fans alike. Spectators can see at least 80% of the total course layout from any vantage point.

The lineup of more than 200 includes such nationally-ranking chauffeurs as Lance Reventlow, John von Neumann, Richie Ginther, John Luce, Dan Gurney, Pete Woods, J. P. Kunstle, Ken Miles, Charles Howard III, Sam Weiss, Andy Porterfield, Bob Oker, Bob Drake and Hugh Harn.

No Notice For Special Meeting On Tree-Street Tour

Without notice, the Carmel City Council switched its monthly tree tour special meeting from Tuesday to Monday, and took the following action, according to City Clerk Larry Rose:

Said yes to: Ross L. Mahon who asked to remove two pines at Santa Lucia and Franciscan Way on grounds that they are "diseased;" Arthur J. Bowen, Torres and Tenth, an oak to allow for a driveway; Walter Murry, to widen Santa Fe between Fourth and Fifth to provide a turnaround; Jade Tree Motel, a driveway variance of three feet.

Said no to: Mrs. A. N. Cannon who wished to remove an oak on Carpenter and Sixth, allegedly diseased; Ray Berney who asked to remove two pines and for a variance for his projected motel driveway at Mission and Fifth; R. E. Stephen, acting for John M. Roberts, who asked to remove a tree at Camino Real and Second.

The council agreed to provide the labor if James B. McGrury paid for the materials for sidewalk repairs on the east side of Dolores Street when the tree in the sidewalk is removed. It also approved a sidewalk encroachment, to save a tree, at the Robert Stanton office building, under construction at Ocean Avenue and Casanova Street.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

Hearing On Stoops Appeal Set For Monday

Carmel city council will hold a public hearing on Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock to consider the appeal of Charles G. Stoops from a planning commission decision which prohibits him from constructing ten multiple dwelling units on 8,000 square feet of land.

Last month planners denied Mr. Stoops a building permit for his planned development on Mission Street southeast of Seventh on the grounds of population density. He asked permission to move four existing units to a new location on the site and add six new ones. Ten units on the site would allow only 800 square feet of land per unit. Planning commissioners indicated they favored 1,000 square feet per unit. This was the first time the planning commission used the interim zoning ordinance amendment, providing population density control for multiple dwellings, since its conception and enactment by the city council.

In his request for reconsideration by the council Mr. Stoops stated, "due to previous statements of the city council and to the financial situation of our land and building, we feel one unit per 1,000 square feet of site is not reasonable for an apartment-motel in this area."

Jazz And Baroque Prove Antagonistic In Ranch Session

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

A "Jazz and Baroque Session" was presented at the Party Room of the Mission Ranch by Jack Benson Tuesday night. The present fashion of dragging the primitively passionate sounds of the Negro into and with more refined music makes a strong mixture but by no means an altogether pleasant one; though the large audience, among whom were many of the regular concert-goers, seemed to enjoy the whole performance. From a contrasting viewpoint it was supposed to find an analogy between the forms used by Telemann and other Baroque composers and what, to me, is practically formless in the strident, earsplitting bangs and fireworks given out by the Mitchell-Ruff Duo on piano and double bass. More musical lines were produced through the English horn unusually well sustained but often half buried under the noise of forced notes the piano had to suffer. It was all clever technical manipulation from each player but the monotony of sameness became excruciating in prolonged listening.

With all respect to the Negro who has a natural impulse to express in sound — and there are highly developed musicians among them — I cannot find any analogy in their utterance to that of centuries of artistic culture that produced the Baroque composers. The whole background of each has been totally different. They have individually their own place and interest. Nevertheless, we thank Benson for his enterprise in making this comparison possible, even though the after effects disturbed one's sleep!

The Baroque Ensemble of some of our best orchestral players: Raymond Duste, Martin, Roy Otis, Helen Stross and Eiko Yoshizato with oboe, recorder, cello, violin and harpsichord that stood out in purity of tone and intent was a relief; for, as old Newman of the London Times has written, "the only music worth listening to is that which says something elevating." While people believe that to "let down" makes for enjoyment, they still choose the less developed or just thoughtlessly fall for a fashion.

Town Topics . . .

When football season comes each fall two longtime Carmel residents, former Arctic explorer Ernest Leffingwell and retired Chicago attorney Henry F. Dickinson, reminisce about a game they played, on opposing teams, 59 years ago.

Mr. Dickinson was a member of the Rockford, Illinois, high school team, "and breaking every bed in the house learning to tackle," he says. Coach of his team was the former great Talcott of Amherst. But so new was football to the Midwest that the high school team could find no opponents.

Finally an angel named George Roper offered to pay travelling expenses of any team willing to come to Rockford and play the high school boys. A game was arranged between Rockford High and Knox College. Mr. Leffingwell was a member of the college team.

"Ernest will hate me for this," says Mr. Dickinson, "but we high school boys defeated the college men, 22-4.

"We had four plays," continues Mr. Dickinson, "and we used them over and over in sequence. We had no signals and played on the grassless baseball field."

After the game Mr. Dickinson was in charge of feeding the mighty college men. "I took them to the Carmel TV and Radio Service now is at Mission and Fifth Streets. A. G. Heshmati is the proprietor.

Mr. Heshmati, a native of Tabriz, Persia, has lived in the United States for 28 years. While he was in the electronic laboratory of Technicolor Motion Pictures in Hollywood, he and his wife, Leota, spent most of their week ends and vacations in Carmel. When the right time came, they moved here permanently and established their business. Their son, John 13, is in the eighth grade at Sunset School.

hotel and served them ginger ale and cookies," he chuckles.

Harry Dickinson's football career did not end in high school. He later played on the University of Wisconsin team and for Harvard Law School, as a member of the class of 1897.

The early days of football on the Pacific Coast was a fall conversation subject of the late Dr. F. E. Lloyd of Carmel. In 1892, a year after graduating from Princeton, he was professor of biology and geology at Pacific University in Oregon and, he believed, organized and coached the first Pacific Northwest football team. He also played on the team. There was no rule prohibiting the coach from being a player. "I played the organ in chapel, too," he used to add.

And while we're on the subject of early day football, no one who heard him tell the tale will ever forget the late James Hopper of Carmel relating how he and his teammates at the University of California stole the Stanford Axe, thus creating a Big Game tradition.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

We are now right in the middle of Children's Book Week, and our Children's Librarian Mrs. Pauline Heisinger, is celebrating the hard way by visiting every grade school room in Carmel. She tells stories or reads them and talks about books to the children, and they love it and so does she. Mrs. Heisinger especially recommends a certain new book an children's reading which was written by Nancy Larrick, and is entitled A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading. It was published in both hard and paper covers, and that for a good reason. It is a book which every parent should not only read but own, and anyone can afford the thirty-five cents the paper covered edition will cost him. It is a book to refer to again and again, for it will tell you what books are interesting and worth while for your young ones to read. It is just what it claims to be, a guide to good reading for children. Read the library copy first and then buy one for yourself. And a happy Children's Book Week to you!

Sarah Churchill, Duchess of Marlborough, lived in the time of Queen Anne, and died in 1744, one of the memorable women of England. She is the central figure of a biography by Louis Kronenberger which he has called Marlborough's Duchess. She was an ancestor of Winston Churchill, and like him, she ranks as a great personality. The book is more than a biography because it gives a picture of the times. Read it for biography of a memorable character or for the history it covers. And speaking of biography, we have the new one about General Patton which was written by Milton Perry. It is called Patton and His Pistols. From the title you may judge that the emphasis is on the colorful uniforms and side arms of the general. It is illustrated with photographs.

The history of Ireland is said to be hard to learn because myth and reality are so entangled, but Brian Inglis has one which gives the picture in a very readable manner. With no fancifulness in the title, it is called The Story of Ireland, and for that alone we can be grateful. Flights of imagination have free reign in titles these days.

A surprising thing it is that so many people can look back into childhood and recall what fascinating families they were party to. All this may have been started by Clarence Day with his Life With Father, after which everybody started remembering mama or some other relative one jump ahead of a psychiatrist. Latest of these is Lord, What a Family by Robert Leckie. There must be something which keeps up the popularity of this sort of thing, so here is another. Funny thing about it is that it looks good. Read it and see.

Among the new novels for this week is Victor Canning's The Dragon Tree, an adventure story which is very good. As a reader who is half way through it, this librarian can truthfully say "So far, so good." Another good one is Amadeo by Daphne Barclay. This is a book which will probably receive some attention, and may even pile up enthusiasm as the weeks go by. It is a quiet story of a small Italian boy and his search for his mother. Wistful, is the word.

And of course the usual mysteries, and the latest from Elizabeth Corbett which is called The President's Wife. Don't be afraid to check the list on the bulletin

Carlson Reports On Japanese Chapel To Wayfarer Auxiliary

By L. Lucille Turner

A visit to Chinzei Gakuin, the secondary agricultural school in Japan whose work is assisted by contributions from the Church of the Wayfarer, was described for the Woman's Auxiliary of that church by Mr. George O. Carlson at the meeting on November 4. Mr. and Mrs. Carlson spent some little time in Japan on a recent trip to the Orient and other members appreciate their reports of their observations.

Mr. Carlson began with a brief outline of the history of the country from the earliest contacts with western peoples, beginning with the shipwreck of Portuguese traders on the island shores. Moderate trade began with the exchange of European goods for Japanese gold and copper, and Catholic priests soon followed with missionary zeal, later joined by Spanish traders and churchmen from the Philippines, more than two centuries before the visit of Commodore Perry and American naval vessels to the island kingdom. At the latter time a few native Christians continued in the religion, although the government was at times hostile to their belief.

Chinzei Gakuin, at first located in Nagasaki, moved into the country after the bombing in 1945 in order to do effective agriculture work with emphasis on dairying. About 1000 students are enrolled, and Mr. Carlson showed a number of colored slides of the school buildings, the farming area, the faculty and students. Plans are in the making for a much-needed chapel sponsored largely by the Carmel church.

The Auxiliary meeting began with a luncheon served by Circle

Three, Miss Edith Griffin, chairman, a foretaste of Thanksgiving in menu and decorations. Mrs. John R. Christie, president, conducted the meeting and welcomed newcomers and members who had been absent for some time. Devotions were given by Mrs. J. G. Greenwood. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray announced the meetings to be held on Friday and Saturday evenings by Dr. E. M. Ligon, noted leader in Christian character research.

Christie Thriller Big Success With Carmel Audience

By Max Tadlock

That sign that every theatre producer loves to see —SRO— was hanging outside The Studio Theatre Saturday night. It was Standing Room Only as the mystery fans were out in force to see what is perhaps Agatha Christie's most successful play. Still running in London six years after the opening, it has set the British stage record for continuous performance.

While this reviewer finds the play inferior to Miss Christie's first, Ten Little Indians, the audience was loud in its applause of the local production.

William Graves, who both designed the set and directed the show, tackled the difficult problem of building suspense in the intimate size theatre with skill and imagination. He was, of course, aided by the fact that the play is much more a whodunit than it is a suspense show.

The action takes place in Monkswell Manor, the newly opened guest house of the Ralstons, Mollie and Giles. Starring in the role of Mollie is Sheila Goldes who gives one of the finest individual performances of the year in local theatre. Her transition from the nervously anxious mistress of the guest house to the terrified young wife who even suspects her own husband of murder was flawless. Dale Harris as her husband was a calm counterfoil, whose own suspicions were not aroused until he began to fear that his wife was showing too much concern for one of their guests, an odd young architect played with great verve and sympathy by David Mayo.

With equal skill, Bud Houghton played the Blimpish Major Metcalf, bringing life to the stage at every entrance. Another guest, the shrewish Mrs. Boyle was played by Virginia Beattie with the proper amount of vinegar to balance the oily unctuousness of the mysterious foreigner Mr. Paravicini so elegantly portrayed by David Eldridge. Laura Kennedy as the rather masculine Miss Casewell gave a believable performance despite her rather distracting stage posture.

Key male figure, as in most British mysteries, is the policeman assigned to solve the first murder and prevent any subsequent murders. Clifford Berry plays this role as Detective Sergeant Trotter.

As the denouement is the raison d'être of the mystery, it would be unfair to hint at more of the story than is inherent in this rather simple listing of the cast. But I will give you this hint — it wasn't the butler. Reason? What English guest house could afford a butler!

Residential Area Within 10 Percent Of Chest Goal

Carmel Area Community Chest collections amount to $23,611.25. As the Chest Fund Drive approaches the final days Carmel is still 28% behind its quota of $32,500. Residential, under the direction of Mrs. James Glaser Jr., is within 10% of the goal but Carmel business has collected only 51% of its quota.

Carmel benefits directly from Chest supported agency services to the extent of more than $25,000. This amount is broken down into the following allotments made directly to Carmel. Youth Center, $8,000; Visiting Nurse Association 1500 calls at $4.00 a call totals $6,000 and the same percentage of Family Service cases (20%) at a cost of approximately $4,000. Support of the Boy and Girl Scout units in the Carmel area, which has an enrollment of 635 Scouts at a cost of $10 per Scout equals $6,350 from the Chest. Added to this is the support of the Carmel Well Baby Clinic and the direct benefits to Carmel total well over $25,000. Besides these Carmel organizations your Chest provides the necessary $7,000 for free hot lunches and milk for needy school children, provides the support of the USO; aid for itinerant transients and this year all Salvation Army donations should be added to Chest contributions, for this great organization is now beneath the Community Chest umbrella.

Carmel Valley, Marina and Pacific Grove Centers as well as the New Monterey Neighborhood Center are all supported by the Community Chest as are both Boy and Girl Scouts in these areas.

Carmel residential donations show an increase of approximately 13%. Business area donations are averaging about the same as last year.

1. Always wash your coffee maker thoroughly with hot water and rinse with hot water.
2. Use fresh, cold water.
3. Use $\frac{3}{4}$ measuring cup (6 fl. ozs.) of water to two level measuring tablespoons of fresh coffee.
4. Never let the coffee boil.
5. Use full capacity of your coffee maker. Never brew less than $\frac{3}{4}$ capacity.
6. Serve as soon as possible after brewing.

SUMMER TIP FOR REFRESHMENT*

LOOM OF LIFE

Pray what do you weave, my pretty maid . . .
Pray what do you weave, my beauty?
"I weave gold dreams for which I paid
With silver coins of duty."

And why do you laugh, my merry one . . .
Why do you laugh so gaily?
"My love returns with the setting sun
And I shall see him daily."

But where has he been, my pretty maid . . .
How far has your lover wandered?
"Full many a mile his feet have strayed,
And many a year he squandered."

Are you to be wed, my happy one . . .
Are you to be wed tomorrow?
"I shall be wed when the day is done,
And bid farewell to sorrow."

I see that you weep, my saddened one . . .
What care has caused your trembling?
"I weep for a faith which was betrayed,
I weep for a man's dissembling."

His words were false, my pretty one . . .
Your lover seeks another?
"His bride is the sea, whose veil is spun
By the luring wind, her mother."

But where is your loom, my idle maid . . .
And why have you left off weaving?
"I wove with joy but the colors fade
To hues of pain and grieving."

Your tears are threads, my blighted one,
For patterns no hand can sever.
"Fit cloth for robes to clothe a nun . . .
I leave my loom forever."

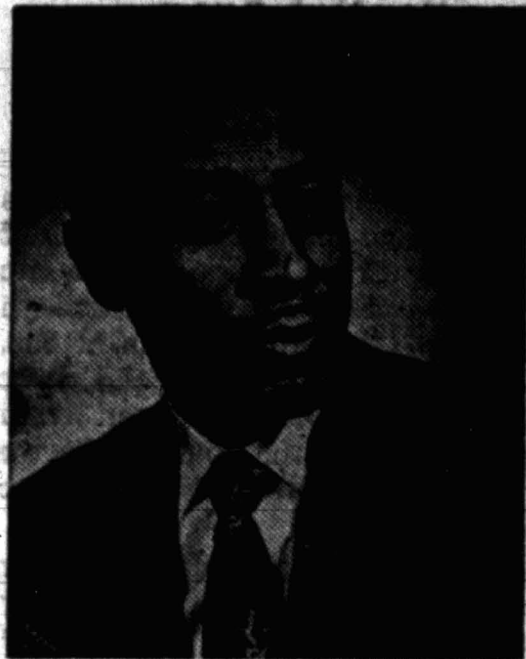

—LAURA JANET LARSON.

WOMAN OF SODOM

She followed Lot, who strode away, head high;
Her thoughts came rushing, piercing like a lance,—
Two puppies waiting for her at the door,
Her precious rooms, her garden left to die . . .
Furtively she turned for one last glance
At the dear spot she was to see no more.

—ETHEL PEAK.

No tickets will be sold at the doors, but a few memberships for the series of five concerts are available, due to the removal from the community of several military families who joined during the membership drive last March. Additional information may be obtained by calling FRontier 5-4139.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's God-given dominion over sin and limitation will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Adam and Fallen Man" will include this verse from Genesis (1:27): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (516:19): "Man, made in His likeness, possesses and reflects God's dominion over all the earth. Man and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflect, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God."

The Golden Text is from I Corinthians (15:22): "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Following her husband's death, Dr. Emma Pope was secretary of the California Medical Association and editor of its official publication until she retired in 1934. Four years later she moved to Carmel from San Francisco and built a house above the Mission on Franciscan Way. She was a member of the Carmel Woman's Club and the Century Club of San Francisco.

37-mm automatic weapon) he held off a force of 3,000 British for seven hours.

On January 25, 1902, he and eight men were ambushed near Lydenburg by 150 British soldiers. All but two men were killed and the general wounded, taken prisoner and banished to St. Helena, a truly appropriate scene of exile for a famous military figure.

Among the several books he himself wrote were Under the Vierkleur and An Exiled General, which Theodore Roosevelt called the best book ever produced on the Boer War. He held several governmental posts in the United States and Mexico, became an American citizen in 1908 and died in this new country in 1917 when he was only 49.

In talking with the Viljoens, some of that feeling for the unbroken horizon rubs off. We thought it might be fine to go live in the Argentine, or Baffinland or wherever else it is that the skyline has not yet been punctured by the TV antenna.

But more than that, Mr. Viljoen made several half-finished references to "When I retire—" and "plans for the future—" We don't know how Mrs. Viljoen views these matters, but we got the feeling that at almost any time Gene Viljoen, responsible Carmel citizen, might rise, go to the door of his comfortable home, take his leave, and depart for far places.

BOOKLOVERS MEET MONDAY

From a Poet's Point of View is the title of the talk Olivia Young will give at a Booklover's meeting at Town House on Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Members are asked to bring friends to the program.

Rider Directs And Has Leading Role In Chalk Garden

Frederick Rider, managing director of the Golden Bough Circle Theatre, will make his local debut as a stage director when The Chalk Garden opens at the Circle. He will also appear in one of the principal roles, that of an affable and eccentric butler who once spent five years in prison. Rider has been appearing in Plaintiff in a Pretty Hat since he took over the role of the Earl of Hewlyn in an emergency, three days before the play opened.

Appearing with Rider will be Marcia Kuster, in the role of a 16-year-old girl given to setting fires, telling lies, and excusing her behavior by quoting from Freud. Miss Kuster was last seen at the Golden Bough in the 1956 production of Tobias and the Angel. Her earlier performance as a knowing teen-ager in The Bees and the Flowers drew rave reviews from all of the local critics. She has since been a member of ballet companies in Salt Lake City and San Francisco, and a student at the Royal Ballet School in London.

BUREAU PROPOSES TO OPEN TOY SHOP

At a recent meeting of the Xmas Bureau, with Mrs. Mark Thomas presiding, two important pieces of business were the drafting of a letter to be sent to all Peninsula organizations asking them for money or gifts, and the proposal to open a toy shop where parents provided with a letter giving names and ages of their children can pick out Christmas presents with fancy wrappings.

The Xmas Bureau is organized to see all families on the Peninsula, who might have a dreary Christmas, will be taken care of with no duplications. Money and all suitable gifts are urgently needed as well as helpers for this neighborly project.

Sport Notes —

at the finish. The Hollister jayvees were a big bruising aggregation with hard-running backs behind an impressive line. The Hayseed's fullback Flores was a tough package for the Little Padres to handle and his slants and power thrusts kept the smaller Carmel line off balance. Flores did most of the damage on the Hayseeds 70-yard touchdown march. The passing of quarterback Frank Mayo to ends Pat Boyle and Doyle Clayton plus the fine running of Mike Draper and David Hansen featured the Padrecito offense. Defensive standouts for the Little Padres were Nick Molitor, Brian LeNeve, Paul Rice, and Fred Bucher.

OPEN READINGS FOR NEW CIRCLE PLAY

The Golden Bough Circle Theatre has announced open readings Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock for its next production. Both actors and backstage workers are needed for The Little Hut, a comedy by Andre Roussin, which opens at the Circle December 12.

Roles in the Roussin play, which has been adapted from the French by Nancy Mitford, include a pretty young woman (age 25 to 35), either French or American, two middle-aged men, a well-built native chieftain and a large ape. Candidates for all roles will be interviewed at the theatre on Casanova Street between Eighth and Ninth. Persons interested in set design and construction are also urged to apply at that time.

representative last week end, Mayor Chitwood and Councilman Allen Knight drove around town with him, looking over possible locations.

"The post office should be south of Ocean Avenue," said Chitwood, "but the land value is prohibitive and the traffic problem would be acute." He suggested that the city might be able to build a post office building, city hall and police quarters on the Junipero property and pay for the whole development out of the post office rental. He proposed that the council appropriate funds for sketch plans for the planning commission to study. The post office would ask for bids, he said, and if it does not receive a favorable bid from private citizens, the city would be prepared to offer a bid.

Councilman Knight preferred to wait and see what other bids might develop for another location.

Francis Whitaker pointed out that the Junipero lots had been purchased, while he was a member of the council, for a specific purpose, a corporation yard. "It is unfair to the people not to consider a place for a corporation yard."

Mayor Chitwood said the land had been purchased for $65,000; it has since doubled and is too valuable for a corporation yard. He said that the lots behind the Youth Center, facing on Torres Street, should be bought for a corporation yard.

"Are you referring this (the post office-city hall proposal) to the planning commission?" asked Whitaker.

"It already has been," said the mayor.

000 man hours and is authentic to the last detail. In the Classic Car Club of America Grand Classic Event in July of this year, it took first prize in the Primary Division Early Custom and grand overall Primary Division award.

A number of unusual automobiles are entered in the Pre-War European Class, including Dr. Milton R. Roth's 1934 Alfa Romeo, Lennart G. Erickson's 1939 Bugatti, two Jaguar SS 100's and a 1928 La Gonda, just shipped over from Singapore by Dr. Jesse L. Carr of San Francisco.

Vintage Cars entered include: Anne and Virginia Giannini's 1910 Hupmobile; a 1910 Chalmers-Detroit owned by Harold L. Jessup of Fremont; a 1914 Hupmobile and a 1938 Buick owned by Alton H. Walker of Pebble Beach. Bill Mendes of Oakland will have his 1924 Case entered; Nelson O. Edmonds of Pebble Beach has a 1924 Model T Ford; James McClenahan of San Mateo, a 1928 Buick and A. R. MacGregor of San Jose a 1935 Chrysler.

John C. Gardiner of Pebble Beach is in charge of arrangements, and a panel of fifteen judges will handle the large entry this year, including Lucius Beebe, Peter De Paolo, George Sclater-Booth, Denholm D. McKie, Robert A. Day, Sterling Edwards, Peter Bancroft, Barry Wagner, Donald Teague, Admiral Harvey E. Overesch, O. A. "Bunny" Phillips, Jack Bradley and Carl G. Anderson.

There is no charge to spectators for the Concours except the $1.00 per car gate fee into the Del Monte Forest.

Election Does Not Affect Carmel's Right To Work Ord.

The state-wide defeat of No. 18, the right to work ballot measure, has no effect on the status of Carmel's right to work ordinance, City Attorney John Morse told the Pine Cone today. The state has not "pre-empted the field" by the fact of having carried the proposition on the ballot, he says.

Whether or not such legislation comes within the jurisdiction of a city or a county has not been clarified. The Palm Springs city right to work ordinance, and the Tehama and San Benito County ordinances have been appealed to the state supreme court and a decision is expected in December.

Carmel's ordinance has not been contested, since the Monterey Peninsula Labor Council is awaiting the decision of the supreme court on the other right to work ordinances.

High Seas Take Two Lives, Imperil Eight

High surf accounted for two deaths on Monday and over the week end caused distress to eight persons.

A large wave swept Debbie Snyder and Jane and Jeffrey Parker off the sandbar and into the Carmel River lagoon Saturday noon. They were rescued by Don Rich, a non-swimmer. An unidentified 11-year-old boy was caught by a breaker off Carmel Beach at the foot of Tenth Avenue on Sunday afternoon. A strong tide carried him along the beach until he was brought ashore by a "Mr. Edwards."

The same day an exhausted skin diver, caught in kelp off Carmel Meadows, was helped to the beach by Bob Weston and Dr. Frank Miller. A family of three, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Whipple of Portland, Oregon, and their seven-year old son, were marooned by high tide on rocks off Point Pinos until rescued by park rangers, the Point Pinos lighthousekeeper and a coast guardman.

Delbert T. Bronson of Los Gatos survived when the boat in which he was fishing was capsized by swells off Marina beach on Monday. Drowned was Ralph Legg of San Jose. Presumed drowned is the third man in the group, Roy Stoddard of San Jose.

Robert Aurner, Harold C. Arnot and Stephen Kahn, representing 160 signatures on a letter to the council, urged that instead of an extension of time to 60 days, the permission to circulate the annexation petition be "tabled."

"That means killed," said Mayor John Chitwood.

The insurgents were aware of the meaning of "tabled." They represented a majority of Point residents, they claimed, and if the petition was never allowed to be started, a lot of bitterness on the Point could be avoided, and "embarrassment to the city council."

"We are never embarrassed by the law," Mayor Chitwood told them. City Attorney and council members explained that the council was merely following legal procedure in action that had originated on the Point. They had been asked to grant permission to circulate an annexation petition; they had referred it to the planning commission, the planning commission had reported favorably. It was not the responsibility of the council to determine whether or not a majority of the Point residents wanted annexation, an election would determine that. The procedure before election provided protections for those who did not want annexation (Councilman May outlined them). The council's responsibility at this time was to indicate to the original petitioners whether annexation was "obnoxious" to Carmel or if it would be considered. If the council "tabled" the application, the legal implication would be that annexation was "obnoxious."

The insurgents pointed out that 25 percent of the registered voters' signatures to the petition was all that was required to bring the annexation to election, whereas it required signatures of owners of 50 percent of the assessed valuation of Point property to kill the process before it came to election. All this trouble could be stopped before it started if the council would just "table" the request for permission to circulate the petition.

BILL EDWARDS RECOVERING

Nine-year-old Bill Edwards, son of High School Principal Warren Edwards, will return home from the Peninsula Community Hospital early next week. Last Sunday afternoon he was hospitalized with brain concussion, a fractured skull and a broken arm suffered when he fell out of a tree 25 feet to the ground. He apparently slipped on a dead limb while building a tree fort, according to his father. The accident occurred at Guadalupe and First Streets.

Bill was taken to the hospital in the Red Cross ambulance operated by Carmel volunteer firemen.

Mayor Chitwood told the insurgents, "is fight your fight for you instead of your having to go out and convince your neighbors."
